Hospital Accommodation Critical in Wainwright

For some time now the hospital accommodation in Wainwright has been in a critical state with many times not enough space or beds to provide for the needs that the hospital is being pressed for.

This has been apparent to many and it is hoped that in the near future there will be provision made for either enlarging the present hospital or the extension of same with a new addition.

The delay has been in whether various rural areas were to come in to the hospital area. This is a deciding factor with the size of any hospital whether it be here in Wainwright or at any other point.

Below is a letter written by one of the local doctors to the hospital board, drawing to the Board's attention the pressing need of larger accommodation which is very badly needed at this time.

October 10, 1946

Board,
Wainwright Municipal Hospital.

Sirs:

I think you realize the shortage of accommodation in the hospital but I doubt if you can grasp just how critical the situation is and how necessary it is that steps be taken as quickly as possible to provide more space. In order that you may visualize the situation as it actually exists I will tabulate the events of a 24 hour stretch.

At 6 p.m., Tuesday, October 8—All beds full, a patient in a bed in the hall, only the case-room bed empty.

At 8 p.m.—A maternity patient was admitted to the case room and delivered. As there was no other bed available we had to leave her in the case-room.

At 11 p.m.—Two flu patients came in from Edmonton but requiring hospital care. As there were no beds in the case room we sent home the other two and the other two to the hotel to wait for room in the hospital.

At 11:05 p.m.—Another maternity patient in labor was admitted and delivered on the operating table. As there were no beds she had to remain in the case room until we could get a bed for her (which was the next day at noon).

At 9 a.m.—A maternity patient phoned from Edmonton but we had no room for her.

At 9:30 a.m.—An acute abdominal case phoned from the Fabry district. It was necessary to leave her at home until we could get a bed for her.

At 10:00 a.m.—A scheduled operation had to be postponed as the maternity case was still occupying the operating room.

We then discharged three patients, none of which were fit to leave the hospital, in order to get room for the patient in the hotel, the one from Fabry and the maternity case from the operating room. This still left all the beds, including the case-room, full.

Several patients requiring operations can not be admitted. Maternity patients are being discharged before they are fit to leave to make room for new ones.

As I write this, 4 p.m., October 10, all beds are full including the case-room and the operating room table.

I am writing this merely to give you a better idea of the situation, and in the hope that you may do everything in your power to speed things up.

I remain,

H. C. WALLACE, M.D.

New Store, Apartment on Main Street

To fill the need in Wainwright for more business premises, Capt. Kenn S. Torg started this week on a new store front and apartment building that he hopes to complete as soon as possible, under the foremanship of Mr. E. E. Torg (Goss).

The Star learns from Mr. Torg that he plans working throughout the winter until completion, depending on the availability of material. He has roughed in a roof and a front and back and plans to heat the structure so that work may be carried on through the cold weather.

The building is to be situated on main street on the vacant lot between the Wainwright Studio and the Fashion Shop in the B.A. building.

When asked what his plans were, Mr. Torg said that he plans a building 25 ft. by 60 ft. two stories high, which will be used as a store with apartments above.

At present he has no prospective tenant for the structure, but he stated that he felt there would be a growing need for such a building in Wainwright with the population on the increase and water and sewer planned for next year he anticipates a great influx of business into town.

This is one of the lacking features in Wainwright that there is not an abundance of business premises to be had. A building of this nature will fill a long needed want.

Such loans are repayable in twelve monthly installments. There are no deductions, no extras, no handling charges. by J. S. Robbette

The National Farm Radio Forum is starting on Monday, October 28th, and will continue every Monday throughout the winter at 9:30 p.m. over the CBC network.

The theme for this winter's broadcasts is "The Farmer and the Future". The Farm Radio Forum program is new in its seventh year and is past the experimental stage. It is widely listened to by our farm people. However to get the most good from the program, it should be preceded by study and followed by discussion. This method can only be a complete one by group participation, a number of farmers getting together on Monday nights and discussing the topic that the speaker has brought to you.

All listening groups should be registered with the National Farm Radio Forum office in Calgary and a report of the discussion sent in to them. This is the only way they can tell if the programs are serving the purpose that they should. On registration of a listening group, pamphlets and bulletins will be sent out to the group that can be used as study material before the program.

Further information regarding the broadcasts can be obtained by calling or writing to the District Agriculturist at Wainwright.

"THIS IS OUR HERITAGE"

For the third time in the past year the CICA Drama Club has earned a spot on the CBC Trans-Canada Network. Under the direction of Doug Homersham, this group of amateur artists has now received the recognition for which they have been striving for the past three years—namely a regular weekly broadcast covering a series of 12 quarter-hour plays written and produced by Edmonton artists.

The series of plays is entitled "This Is Our Heritage" and the opening broadcast next Monday at 11:15 p.m. is the story of the romance of Canuchwahm, a Cree girl of Edmonton House.

The entire series is written by Elsie Park Gowan of Edmonton and is dedicated to the men and women in the adventures of whose lives is woven the romance of the Prairie Provinces.

Cast for next Monday's performance consists of Farnham Howard, Olga Laruska, and Jack Dickson. Doug Homersham of CICA's Production staff will produce the entire series of plays to be heard on CICA at 11:15 p.m. Monday for the next 12 weeks.

If you hated your sins the way you hate some people, you would have a lot more to do with them. And a lot more to do with people.

HEALTHY

A HEALTHY SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

EYE CLINICS IN THE ARCTIC

One of the most interesting annual voyages in the world is that taken every year by the Hudson Bay steamer Nascope when she faces the storms and perils of the Arctic seas to deliver supplies to trading posts and mission stations in the eastern Arctic and to bring back the furs collected.

When a request came to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind from the Northwest Territories Administration to hold eye clinics among the Eskimos throughout the northern half of the Eastern Arctic, Patrol last summer, it was acceded to with considerable gratification. For the Institute, as its name implies, is a national organization endeavoring to serve every blind person in the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the American border to the North Pole. Moreover, the organization is not only desirous that the sightless should be helped to live as normally as possible but is also concerned that treatment should be given those for whom there is hope of restoration of vision and that every means should be employed to prevent blindness.

Eye Service Group.

When the Nascope reached Churchill early last August this new venture was inaugurated as the Eye Service Group, consisting of Dr. Walter Crewson, ophthalmologist of Hamilton, Ont., A. H. Tweedie, optometrist, and the author, as nurse-secretary of the Institute's department of prevention of blindness. Our services were made available to the Eskimos and others who were at the ports of call from Churchill north.

All medical supplies, drugs, instruments and dressings, as well as lenses, spectacle frames and photographic equipment were kept dry in waterproof panniers made for us by the blind in our willow shop and similar to those supplied the field ambulance corps in action overseas. At each post the Nascope anchors well out from shore because of tides and lack of docking facilities. As a result, particularly on rough days, these panniers were found invaluable in keeping supplies dry when going ashore in small boats.

At two of the posts, Chesterfield Inlet on the west coast of Hudson Bay and Pangnirtung at the south-east of Baffin Island, there are small mission hospitals in which the eye clinics were held. Those needing operative care were attended to and left in the care of the resident physician and the nurses.

Five operations were performed en route in the little dispensary of the ship. At the ports of call not boasting a hospital the clinics were set up wherever space could be found—sometimes in the Hudson Bay warehouse or perhaps in the kitchen of the post manager or in an old building.

On the whole the Eskimos had healthy, normal eyes. Of course, a number of them, especially the older ones, needed glasses and these were fitted whenever possible. The optometrist had a difficult task fitting a standard mount to the Eskimo's extremely flat, broad face. They were amazed and most appreciative of the result, but it remains to be seen how practical the glasses prove in the extreme cold.

Dr. Crewson examined a total of 208 natives and found that 126 of these had normal eyes. Accidents from rifles backfiring seemed to play quite a large part in those with disorganized globes, optic atrophy or corneal scars but these, except for seven who were definitely blind, had either one good eye or fair vision in both.

HALLOWE'EN 1946

This year the hallowe'en celebration falls on Thursday of this week, and as a word of precaution we would like to ask the parents of children to see that no damage is inflicted on other's property.

In past years Wainwright has had quiet hallowe'en nights as well as rather jubilant ones and the trouble and expense involved in the latter has made it difficult for many a home owner and storekeeper.

The dictionary defines hallowe'en as the eve proceeding All Saints Day, October 31st the day that various pranks are played. This definition gives the impression that for centuries past foolish misgivings of children have been accepted by the public, but there is very little excuse for vandalism or mis-treatment of property.

It might be pointed out that the parents are responsible for the misdeeds of their children and to safe guard further trouble or expense on behalf of the parents would it not be better to see that children do not get into harmful mischief. Surely the children can find good, clean fun without damaging other peoples property. They have in the past and we hope they will do likewise this year.

THE HOSPITAL QUESTION

This topic has many points that we feel should be brought to light at this time. It is a proven fact that the hospital facilities provided in 1928 and expected to fill the needs for time immemorial, have grown short of those needs and today hospital authorities are faced with a very acute problem.

As noted in other columns there appears a letter from one of the local doctors written to the board stating the accommodation situation for a single day. This day is no exception to any other day—it appears from reports that every day finds the hospital filled to capacity and other would be patients turned away awaiting beds.

For some time now the question of enlarging the hospital area has been uppermost in the minds of the Municipal Council, but very little substantial facts have been grown out of their conversations. It appears that Irma, rather hoping to have a hospital of their own located in that town at some early date. Other centers such as Chauvin and Edgerton have shown quite an interest in entering the proposed hospital area, providing terms and agreements can be reached.

The year that the hospital was formed it was only to serve Wainwright and the immediate surrounding territory. Since that date many thousands acres have been added to the area with no substantial increase in accommodation facilities.

The problem is certainly a difficult one. Everyone is aware of the need for a new, or larger, hospital, but one thing that must determine the size of any increases is the area it is to serve. Until this is done and residents of certain areas make up their mind as to whether they are coming in or staying out of the hospital area, very little can be done. Of course the board could go ahead and make plans for a hospital of a given size, but if there is nothing definite as to the extent of territory that it is to serve or the requirements that are to be needed in future years, we will find ourselves in the same predicament twenty years hence.

The town as a whole is bound to benefit from any move to increase the size of the hospital. More and more people will come to Wainwright to seek good hospital and medical service if the facilities are here. The action must not be delayed too long as they will be come impatient and seek facilities to handle their medical needs elsewhere. This action would not be in the best interest of the town or district.

It is up to the hospital board and the M.D. Council to see just what steps can be taken to bring about a speedy re-allocation of the hospital district, then plans can be made toward a new hospital or enlarging the present one to meet the demands of the population affected.

We are fully aware of the work and effort already put forth by different parties who have looked into the question, but to date very few conclusive details have been brought forth, that we are aware of.

No doubt the coming winter will see something substantial brought about so that a start on a new hospital or addition to the present building will be underway by this time next.

It is hoped that this will be the case, as larger hospital facilities are a crying need in Wainwright.

Hints for the Household

CANNING POULTRY

After a busy season of canning fruits and vegetables, of making jams, jellies and pickles, the housewife is now counting her chickens for another canning bee.

Canned chicken or fowl is so convenient to have when, at a moment's notice, a special meal has to be prepared. Besides being convenient to have, it makes very good eating. What better way is there to make use of these chickens that instead of jumping over the fence, etc., with the result that they may have a slight physical defect that will prevent their getting a good grade and consequently a good price on the market. Those fowls that are not attending to their duty, that is laying regularly, may be canned also.

The home economists of the C.B.D. D.A. give the following recommendations and directions for canning chicken or fowl:

Chicken or fowl should stand for 24 hours after killing, they may be canned either raw or pre-cooked. For either method, they should be drawn and thoroughly washed.

For Raw Canning: skin and excess fat are taken off. Then the chicken or fowl is cut in large pieces (drumsticks, thighs, breast, back and wings). All pieces should be boned except the drumsticks, then the raw meat is packed in clean jars or in plain tin cans, leaving 1/2 inch head-space. A drumstick is placed in the center of the container, this allows heat to penetrate more easily to the center of the containers during processing and will also improve the flavour of the meat. Salt is added during the packing, allowing one teaspoon to a quart sealer or 28-oz. tin can. Other seasonings in the form of a carrot and 1 small onion may be added to taste. No liquid should be added. Glass sealers are then partially sealed and tin cans completely sealed for processing.

Glass sealers and tin cans are processed for one hour in the pressure cooker at 15 lbs. pressure, or in boiling water bath for 3 hours, counting the time from when the water begins to boil, that is a good rolling boil. The glass sealers are sealed as soon as they are removed from the pressure cooker or the boiling water bath and cooled in an upright position. Sealers should never be inverted to cool. Tin cans must be cooled immediately and rapidly in a cold water bath or under cold running water.

For pre-cooked canning: The excess fat should be removed but the skin left on and the chicken or fowl cut up in pieces. The pieces are then put in a kettle with water. To a fowl of about 4 1/2 lbs. 1 pint of water is added and the fowl boiled for one hour in the closely covered kettle. For a chicken of the same weight, 1 cup only of water is added and the boiling time is cut in half. After fowl or chicken is pre-cooked, the skin and bones are removed and the liquid strained through a cheese-cloth and then cooled. The surplus fat should be removed when liquid is cold. The cooked meat is then packed in glass sealers or tin cans with one teaspoon of salt per quart sealer or 28-oz. tin can. The liquid is then brought to the boil and added to cover the meat, leaving 1/2 inch head-space.

Glass sealers and tin cans are processed for one hour in the pressure cooker at 15 lbs. pressure, or in the boiling water bath for 3 hours, counting the time from when the water begins to boil, that is a good rolling boil. The glass sealers are sealed as soon as they are removed from the pressure cooker or the boiling water bath and then cooled in an upright position. Sealers should never be inverted to cool. Tin cans must be cooled immediately and quickly in a cold water bath or under cold running water.

One chicken of 4 to 5 pounds will approximately fill one quart sealer and one pint sealer or 1 28-oz. can and 1 20-oz. can.

OUR GOOD FRIEND THE POTATO

Because the potato is a homely vegetable and because it is a familiar part of the meals all their lives, many people are inclined to give it very little attention and consideration. Many vegetables come and go during the year but the potato is always there, our faithful and good friend.

The people who love potatoes, who could eat them three times a day and often do so, are not much interested in the way they are prepared, they like them anyway. But there are others who do not have such a love for this lowly vegetable and get tired of boiled, baked, mashed, scalloped and even fried potatoes. The home economists of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture offer tested recipes which will find favour with all groups of potato consumers.

POTATOES, FRENCH PEASANT STYLE

2 1/2 cups cold cooked potatoes, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 cup bacon fat
1/2 cloves garlic
1 1/2 tablespoons chives or onions, chopped
1 1/2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
1 1/2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
3/4 cups milk OR 1/2 cup stock and 1/4 cup milk

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Sauté potatoes in bacon fat until brown on all sides. Remove potatoes and keep hot on back of stove or in warming oven. Crush garlic with the blade of a knife and fry in fat with chives or onions, parsley and celery leaves. Add flour and gradually blend in milk. Add salt and pepper and cook over low heat until the sauce is thick—about 4 to 6 minutes, stirring constantly. Add potatoes and reheat. A little minced ham may be sprinkled over top of potatoes. Six servings.

POTATOES IN GREEN PEPPERS

3 large green peppers
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup grated cheese
3 cups diced cooked potatoes

Wash peppers, cut in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Parboil, uncovered, in salted water until tender but not soft. Drain. Melt fat, add flour and blend well. Add milk stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add salt, pepper and cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add potatoes and heat over low heat until hot. Serve in green pepper cases. Six servings.

BOLOGNA CUPS WITH HOT POTATO SALAD

2 cups diced, cooked potato
2 sweet pickles, chopped
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons vinegar
Salad dressing to moisten
Salt and pepper
6 slices large bologna

Combine everything but bologna. Heat in top of double boiler. Do not remove casing from bologna, which should be cut a little thicker than usual. Heat in a little hot fat in frying pan until edges curl up to form a cup. Fill with hot potato salad, garnish with parsley. Creamed vegetables may replace hot potato salad.

World Of Wheat

OUR FARMERS LOSING 62 CENTS A BUSHEL

A farmer friend wants me to state in this column whether Britain is re-selling Canadian wheat to other countries—which British purchases from Canada at $1.55, basis 1 Northern Fort William—and who receives the profits on such re-sales.

The British Government does not divulge this information. Britain has the right under the Wheat Agreement to re-sell Canadian wheat that she buys at $1.55 at any price she can secure, and anywhere she pleases. When she re-sells Britain keeps the profit. It would seem incredible that countries like South Africa, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Denmark, Holland and others who want Canadian wheat should pay Canada $2.18—the official Board price—when Britain will have a surplus of Canadian wheat and can sell it at a cheaper price than $2.18 and make a profit for herself. The British Government did announce in August that it intended to re-sell some of this wheat to Germany. It also seems amazing to think that Germany, our late enemy, can have wheat supplied to her at $1.25, and that countries which were our Allies in the war, and as close as Newfoundland, would be expected to pay $2.18.

In any way we look at it our prairie farmers are losing 62 cents a bushel on all the wheat we sell to Britain, and on all that Britain re-sells to Germany and others.

WINTER STORES FOR BEES IMPORTANT

C. B. Goodenham, the Dominion Apiarist, gives a timely reminder to beekeepers about having sufficient food for bees during the coming winter. All colonies, he says, should have at least 40 pounds of whole-some stores for the winter. These stores should be in the hives by the first of October in northern localities or by the middle of October in more southern latitudes where it is likely to remain warm until later. Usually the honey stored in the brood chamber is of poor quality and deficient in quantity, so the bees will have to be fed. Combs of clover or buckwheat honey are excellent for this purpose. A good plan, and one that is recommended, is to supplement the stores within the brood chamber with a syrup made of two parts of pure granulated sugar to one part of water. One pound of sugar should be allowed for every pound of stores required.

Colonies that have stored enough honey in the brood chamber for the winter will also stand a better chance of wintering safely if given 10 to 15 pounds of sugar made into syrup in addition to the honey they already have.

In localities where there is a danger of the honey granulating hard in the combs during the winter or where an abundance of poor grade honey is stored in the brood chamber several of the outside combs containing the most honey should be removed and empty combs placed in the middle of the hive, and the bees fed sugar syrup.

TURKEY MARKETING

With increased selling prices for turkeys, producers are advised by C. W. Traves, Poultry Commissioner, to keep in mind available markets. The Christmas season is considered the best time for turkey marketing, but conditions are changing. Farmers now have earlier hatched turkeys, and turkeys of faster growing and developing strains.

A prime turkey is a bird of good market type, well fleshed, with a fair to medium coating of fat. Excessively fat turkeys are not a profitable buy for the consumer. Any time from now to the Christmas market, the producer should obtain a market price for prime turkeys. The birds should be marketed when ready and not held for the Christmas market. This is particularly advisable if they are being raised on wire or slat yards, where they tend to go off their legs if held too long.

The producer should handle carefully each turkey in his flock, picking out the most desirable males and females as breeders for next season. The remaining birds should be culled into groups according to their age and market development. Any birds that are ready for market should be killed, dressed and sold without delay. The other birds should be finished for market by keeping a liberal supply of food before them at all times. In addition to the usual feed they should receive a moist mash consisting of one half boiled barley and one half developing or fattening mash; preferably mixed with milk. This should be fed at noon, a little at a time until the birds are accustomed to it. The quantity is then increased until they are receiving all they will clean up in half an hour. If possible, birds to be finished for market should be separated from those to be kept as breeders, since it is not desirable to have breeding birds too well fleshed or fattened for the breeding season.

SEED SUPPLIES FOR 1947

Yes, we are already thinking of seed grain for next spring. It's not too early either. This year, as for the past seven years, the co-operative arrangement whereby registered and certified seed is made available to farmers through elevator men will be in operation. Price lists are, of course, in the hands of every elevator agent of the member companies of the Alberta Crop Improvement Association. Seed is also available from other grain elevator agents on similar terms. A farmer requiring seed of this quality to improve his crop or for seed production need only see his elevator man to place an order, and should do so at an early date if he wishes to be sure of getting the variety and grade he wants. The supply of the top grades is always limited and all grades of some varieties are likely to go quickly.

For those who do not desire registered or certified seed, indications are that there is no large section of the province in which, despite frost, drought or other hazard, there will not be seed on the farms for general seeding in 1947. There are some comparatively small areas so affected, but seed supplies are available within easy trucking distance in most cases. The problem of seed supplies should not be difficult, but when a farmer must buy seed, he should endeavour to get only high quality seed of a recommended variety. This can be assured only by arranging for it early in the season while it is possible to pick and choose

Fifty years ago the tuberculosis death rate was nearly five times what it is today, according to Eric Connelly, president of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association. Over thirty-three thousand people survived in this country last year who would have died of tuberculosis had this decline in the death rate not occurred.

"The voluntary tuberculosis associations have been to a large extent responsible for the increasing public support of tuberculosis control efforts," said Mr. Connelly.

In Alberta there is one provincial association, with local committees or branches in Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Red Deer, High River, Cardston and Banff. All the activities of these voluntary organizations are financed solely by the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

Mr. Connelly is also president of the Calgary Tuberculosis Association, which is cooperating closely with the Department of Health and the Alberta Tuberculosis Association in conducting the first all-out 100% chest X-ray survey in Alberta to be held in Calgary during the coming winter.

THERE'S TALENT ON THEM—THAN PRAIRIES

The gold rush days brought us the oft-quoted expression "There's gold in them thar hills." Today, CJOCA's production department is following up on one sponsor's conviction that "There's talent on them thar prairies."

The Edmonton branch of Henry Birks and Sons Jewellers, are now sponsoring Birks Musical Awards, a half-hour weekly broadcast designed to encourage musical pursuits by youthful artists.

Birks are offering six prizes totaling $525 to the six young artists judged best at the conclusion of 26 broadcasts. Contest is open to vocalists, violinists and pianists 21 years of age or under. Three contestants will be heard on each broadcast, now heard over CJOCA at 4:30 every Sunday afternoon. Semi-finalists will perform on the 24th and 26th broadcasts next April and the winner will be announced on the final performance. The program originates in Heintzman's Piano Studios, before a select audience.

From CJOCA's standpoint the show is a natural in every respect. It falls in line with the station's policy to find, encourage and promote local talent. The program originates in Heintzman's Piano Studios, before a select audience.

The CJOCA Drama Club, the Sons of the West, the Rhythm Five, Sign Grapentin, Jack Toulson, and others have made the CBC Trans-Canada network consistently. Betty McChalkill was semi-finalist in Singing Stars of Tomorrow program last April. These are evidences of the results of CJOCA's interest in local talent. Besides, CJOCA offers three annual scholarships—one to a vocalist, one to an instrumentalist, and one to the best in speech arts.

It is with great pleasure, therefore, that we announce the opening of the series of broadcasts titled Birks Musical Awards. The talent is available and Henry Birks and Sons are out to find it.

Polymer Corporation
Celebrates 3rd Year

Sarnia, Ontario—To mark its third birthday, Polymer Corporation Limited, the government-owned synthetic rubber plant, today set its sights for an increase of 11,000,000 pounds in its output during the next twelve months.

Three years ago yesterday, the Crown company produced its first commercial batch of synthetic rubber. In its first year of operation it turned out approximately 55,000,000 pounds. In its second year it achieved an output of 102,000,000 pounds, and in its third 107,000,000 pounds. The goal for the next twelve months is 118,000,000 pounds.

Of the grand total of 269,000,000 pounds so far produced, 47,000,000 pounds have been butyl, the type of synthetic rubber used chiefly in inner tubes; and 222,000,000 pounds have been buna-S, the all-purpose rubber used for tire casings and thousands of other items.

During the war, the company turned out 32,800,000 pounds of cumene and 8,500,000 pounds of excess ethyl-benzene, both of which were used as gasoline blending agents. It has produced 2,800,000 pounds of toluene, and also has produced 5,000,000 pounds of styrene in excess of its requirements for making buna-S.

In the near future it will step up its output of styrene to supply 12,000,000 pounds a year to private companies which will soon be making polystyrene, a plastics base.

In its short lifetime, which began with its incorporation in the spring of 1942, the government-owned company has chalked up eleven major accomplishments:

It built a $50,000,000 plant with a capacity great enough to take care of all foreseeable Canadian demands.

It translated what was little more than a chemist's dream into the practical reality of producing synthetic rubber on a commercial scale.

It produced its first synthetic rubber less than 13 months after the turning of the first sod.

It has improved the quality and uniformity of its types of synthetic rubber so that these now take their place alongside other basic raw materials on the world market.

It has enlarged its endeavors so that soon it will supply basic materials for the plastics and chemical industries.

It has added to its output three new types of buna-S, two new types of latex and two new types of butyl, and is doing research work on still more new types.

Out of its own resources, it has constantly added to and improved its facilities.

It has set aside substantial reserves for depreciation, and has shown a fair profit.

It has cut in half the selling price of its synthetic rubber.

It has developed export markets in Europe and the Americas.

And it has made Canada independent on faraway sources for a vital raw material.

If you have anything to sell, trade, lost or found, just try a Star want ad and your troubles are over.

New C.N. Delivery Man for Wainwright

A familiar sight on Wainwright's streets during any type of weather for the last five years has been Mr.
Fred Attewell, delivering and picking up express and freight for the C.N.R.
Fred will complete his duties this week when on October 31st he will have hauled his last load for the C.N.
in Wainwright.

Mr. and Mrs. Attewell plan to move to Drumheller where in future they will reside. Fred having found employment at that centre.
Mr. and Mrs. Attewell moved to the Greenhills district in 1938 coming from England and have resided in Wainwright during the past five years since Fred has been employed with the railroad.

The new delivery man is Mr. Fred Sheffield who recently gave up his position with the Town of Wainwright that he has held many years.
Mr. Sheffield will take over his new duties on November 1st.

ELK ISLAND NATIONAL PARK

The foresight of the Government of Canada in setting aside national park areas has proved very effective in conserving the wildlife of this country. A notable example is the saving of the buffalo from possible extinction.

In the early sixties, it is claimed,
there were millions of bison, or buffalo, roaming the plains of North America. Some thirty years later, because of the relentless slaughter for profit, for sport, or simply for the lust of killing, buffalo had become quite scarce. The story of the saving of this magnificent species is closely bound up with the establishment of Canada's national park system. Today there are 26 national parks covering an area of approximately 20,000 square miles and all are wildlife sanctuaries. One of the smallest,
"Elk Island National Park" in central Alberta, measuring 50 square miles, is frequently referred to as "the new home of the buffalo".

Elk Island Park was set aside in 1906 to preserve the wapiti, or elk, which was fast disappearing. Later the Canadian authorities decided to move the herd of buffalo temporarily established at Elk Island to a fenced reserve at Wainwright, Alberta.
Some forty animals were so wild that they could not be captured. Descendants of that small but vigorous group now comprise one of the finest and healthiest herds in the North American continent. Under the sanctuary conditions provided, other big game species such as elk, mule deer and moose share this ideal range with the former "Monarch of the Plains".

Bird life is very abundant in the park, which is one of the most important sanctuaries in the West. A spectacular sight in autumn is afforded by thousands of birds preparing to migrate south for the winter.
It was only to be expected that a natural museum of big game animals and birds, located on a most important tourist attraction. In recent years Elk Island has developed into a favourite summer playground.
Facilities for the enjoyment of sports are numerous and varied. The recreational centre of the park is at Sandy Beach, located on Astoria Lake. Sandy Beach is a long stretch of fine, clean sand which affords excellent opportunities for swimming.
Amusements such as swings and see-saws are provided for children. In the immediate vicinity of the beach may be found an area suitable for baseball, softball, horseshoe pitching and other forms of outdoor recreation.

Smallest of all national park golf courses but certainly not least in popularity is the nine-hole lay-out on a rolling plateau southeast of Astoria Lake. Small ponds are interesting hazards on this course and fine views may be had of Astoria Lake, the rolling plateau and Beaver Hills.

From the fairway buffalo, elk, moose and mule deer may be seen in their native surroundings.

One of the most popular recreations in the park is boating. Canoes and other water craft may be rented from a boat livery which operates during the summer season. A beautiful grove facing the lake, equipped with a large number of tables, benches and other conveniences, is a favorite spot for picnickers.

Although there is no hotel or bunkhouse accommodation in the park, many visitors during the summer of 1946 brought along their own camping equipment and lived out-of-doors.
A public campground on the eastern side of Astoria Lake, not far from Sandy Beach, is well equipped with kitchen shelters, stoves, tables and benches and has firewood, parking areas and other conveniences.

Autumn is one of the most attractive seasons in which to visit this forested area. It is accessible either by motor road or railway. The road runs right through the park from north to south and connects with the main provincial highway system of Alberta. It is approximately one hour's run from Edmonton.

Elk Island has become a very important link in the chain of Canada's national park system. Not only is it helping to conserve wildlife, but should continue to attract visitors in increased numbers. During August of this year the number of visitors entering the park was more than double that of the same period last year. Many of them are able to adorn their maples, albums with interesting mementos of their visit to the range of "one of the most magnificent quadrupeds that ever trod the earth".
